MONDAY EVENING, JULY 7.

A WOMAN MARRIES A WOMAN. - An extraordinary law suit is now going on in Paris. Some years ago a surgeon made the acquaintance of a girl, who soon became a mother. "I cannot marry you," said the doctor, (although he was not married,) "but if you can find any one else to make you his wife and adopt the child as his own, I will leave him all my fortune." But a husband could not be found to accept these conditions. However, among the girl's friends was a school companion of hers whose brother had just died abroad, and she proposed to take her brother's name and attire and marry her friend, to save her from disgrace. This was done and they duly married and lived before the world as man and wife. The doctor died in course of time, and, according to his word left his whole fortune to the child. The soi disant husband also died, and the secret was discovered. Hearing this, the relations of the doctor have sought an action against the child to recover the fortune. The money, they say, was left to the child of Mons. and Mme. A; but as there was no Mons. A., there could be no Mme. A .- ergo, the child could not be theirs. The suit is still at this point, the plaintiff's case being alone heard as yet.

THE WORD "LADY."-Formerly, in England, when the affluent lived all the year round able. Cheaper than Soap. at their mansions in the country, the lady of the manor distributed to her poor neighbors, with her own hands, once a week, or oftener, a certain quantity of bread, and she was called by them "Leff day." that is, in the Saxon, the bread-giver. These two words were in time corrupted, and the meaning is now as little known as the practice which gave rise to it; yet it is from that hospitable custom that, to this day, the ladies of that kingdom alone serve the meat at their own tables.

Read the following testimonials to its merits: Office Society for Prev. Cru. to Animals, New York, April 11, 1878. I have seen, and do most unqualifiedly approve of Mr. W. B. McClure's Anti-friction Chain and Traveller, for the use of cart horses, whereby the severe concussions and continual galling incident to the present mode of harnessing draft animals are effectually overcome. This invention should be speedily in general use.
